The 2015 Udall Family Foundation have announced the availability of merit-based scholarships and internship programs for two-year and four-year undergraduates who are of Native American and Alaska Native descent. Review the opportunities below. If you would like to apply for one or all three programs, visit the Udall Foundation Website for guidelines and applications.

Native American and Alaska Natives Pursuing Tribal Public Policy or Native American Health Care:

The 2015 Udall Foundation recognizes Native American and Alaska Native undergraduates with commitment and potential to make significant contributions to tribal public policy or Native American health care. You will also attend Orientation in August to learn from and network with experts, their peers, and members of the Udall family.

> Awards $5,000 merit-based scholarships for educational expenses,
> Connect with a national network of Native American leaders
> Meet other Udall Scholars at the August Orientation in Tucson, Arizona

Native American and Alaska Natives Pursuing Environmental Majors:

The 2015 Udall Foundation recognizes undergraduates with the commitment and potential to pursue careers related to the environment across a wide spectrum of science, education, engineering, and social science fields.

> Awards $5,000 merit-based scholarships for educational expenses
> Connect with a national network of environmental leaders
> Meet other Udall scholars at the Orientation at Tucson, Arizona in August
The award includes life-time membership in the Udall Alumni Community, a vibrant community offering job and internship opportunities, support for public service initiatives, and intellectual discussion.

Native American Congressional Internship Program:

There will be a ten-week fully funded summer internship in Washington, D.C., for Native American and Alaska Native undergraduate (from 2-year and 4-year colleges) students who wish to learn more about the federal government and issues affecting Indian Country. They will arrange placement in a congressional or agency office where you will have opportunities to research legislative issues important to tribal communities, network with public officials and tribal advocacy groups, and experience an insider's view of the federal government.

Benefits:
- Roundtrip airfare to and from Washington, D.C. and a daily allowance for meals, transportation and incidentals,
- Paid apartment-style housing provided with an on-site coordinator,
- Meetings with distinguished members of Congress, as well as directors and staff of federal agencies, and
- A $1,200 educational stipend upon completion of the internship.

For more information, contact: www.udall.gov